English has often borrowed words from other cultures or languages. Here are some examples with interesting stories.

< shampoo >

The word shampoo ㉠(come) from the Hindi word champo, which ㉡(mean) "to press." In India, the word was used for a head massage. British traders in India experienced a bath with a head massage and introduced it to Britain in the 18th century. The meaning of the word shampoo changed a few times after it first entered English around 1762. In the 19th century, shampoo got its present meaning of "washing the hair." Shortly after that, the word began to be also used for a special soap for the hair.

Q) I’m Minji. I like to buy things on sale. If something’s on sale, I buy it ㉠_____ I don’t need it. Last week, I bought two T-shirts on sale, but I already have many. Can you help me with my problem?

A) Hi. I’m Dr.Money. Buying things on sale is good if you buy things you need. In your case, the problem is that you buy things you don’t even need. Here’s some advice. Before you buy something, ask yourself, “Do I really need this?” Also, before you go shopping, make a shopping list. Don’t buy items that aren’t on the list ㉡_____ they’re on sale. Then you won’t buy things on the spot.
